

KMCT-TV
Request for Extension of Special Temporary Authority

Exhibit

With this application, First Assembly of God of West Monroe (“First Assembly”) hereby requests an extension of special temporary authority granted to it in LMS0000004433 on August 31, 2015. While First Assembly has made progress in rebuilding KMCT’s permanent facilities, it still requires additional time and authorization to operate the station from the temporary facilities specified in the earlier application.

On October 13, 2014, an EF2 tornado felled KMCT’s tower and knocked the station off the air. Since that date, First Assembly has worked diligently to first bring the station back on the air from temporary authorized facilities on September 24, 2015 and now to build permanent new facilities for the station. In the last six months, First Assembly has completed construction of the unmanned transmitter building at the permanent site including the antenna, coax line, etc. The new transmitter for the building is being delivered this week. Once the transmitter is installed, work will begin on installing microwave dishes for studio to transmitter links. Additionally, construction continues on the new master control facility.

Despite this progress, First Assembly out of an abundance of caution hereby requests an extension of special temporary authority to continue to allow KMCT to operate from the previously authorized temporary facilities to allow it to continue to have time to complete the facilities.
