

Environmental Effect

Proposed construction site is on a remote mountain top and has been operational for approx. 40 years utilizing TV translators at a power level of 30 watts or less. Therefore, an environmental study is not required. The proposed power levels will continue to be 30 watts and do not threaten the general public.

The applicant is the only one who can access this site.

With respect to FCC guidelines, RF exposure is not a threat to people accessing this site.