

Waiver Request for filing CP Extension Request after June 22, 2019

The subject CP extension request is being filed today, June 28, 2019. The Commission's public notices on repacking variously state that such requests should be filed 90 days before a CP expires, or by June 22, 2019. These different dates have created great confusion, especially since CP extension requests are normally due only 30 days before a CP is set to expire.

Counsel for Video Voice, Inc. sincerely regrets not filing this CP extension application sooner, but he was gathering relevant information and believed, in good faith, that filing by today was soon enough. Video Voice respectfully urges that filing six days late should be overlooked and forgiven, especially since the Commission's database lists WVVH-CD as having no dependencies. That means that moving late should not create an interference problem or require coordination with other stations. Likewise, filing a CP extension request six days late should not have any adverse effect on the Commission's repacking program.
