Texas Public Radio uses a system of staggered terms to avoid a situation in which a majority of its Board members will change in any one year. Board terms are normally for a period of three years. As a result, there normally will be a change in the majority of the Board members every three to four years.

The chart that follows first lists the Board members that were approved by the Commission in response to the gradual pro forma transfer of control application filed in 2016 (FCC File No. BTCED-20160119AAW). Although new Board members normally take their seats on the Board in January of each year, minor changes in the Board do occur throughout the rest of the year.

Immediately beneath the date listed in each column is a percentage that reflects the percentage of the then sitting board members that were approved by the Commission in 2016. The total number of Board members has varied between 16 and 20, which is reflected in the differences in percent voting interest for each board member. In January 2016 and October 2019, each Board member held a 1/18 voting interest, expressed in decimal form as 5.56%. In October 2017, each Board member held a 1/20 voting interest, expressed in decimal form as 5.0%. Currently, the Board has 16 members, expressed in decimal form as 6.25%.

As can be seen from the chart, it has taken four years to reach the point where a majority of the board members has changed in comparison to the Board approved by the Commission in the January 2016 gradual pro forma transfer of control application. In no year has there been a sudden change in a majority of the Board. Even now, six of the 18 board members approved by the Commission in 2016 continue to sit on the Board.
