Subject: WWGH still broadcasting on 107.1 FM, said publicly they don't have to shut down

Dear Folks at FCC,

WWGH is still broadcasting on 107.1 FM as of today despite the order sent on Friday, Feb 12th. On his morning show on Monday the 15th, Scott Spears said publicly that they didn't think that letter pertained to them, that they called the FCC on Friday and got a ticket number to review their case, and that until someone from the FCC comes down and shuts it off, they're not going to. I can provide audio clips of this later tonight if interested. (I have to cut the file up, etc).

The broadcast site is owned by Fairfield Homes. The antenna is on top of Marion Towers Apartments located at 400 Delaware Ave. in Marion, Ohio. I sent an e-mail to Ken Tennar, I guess he's a manager there, showing him the letter from the FCC and reminding him of the PIRATE act of 2020. They continue to allow the broadcast.

Opinion: These people are nasty and slippery. They're not going to shut down until someone stands in their face and says, "You shut this down right now." You would think the letter you sent would have been enough, but it didn't say that, so they don't believe it. While on the air 2/15, they also entertained the notion that this was all a hoax since they didn't receive a certified letter in the mail.

Attached are quick radio checks I made each day so far where I tuned in to 107.1 FM and found them broadcasting. Also, there are screenshots of the WWGH facebook page where they continue to advertise that they're on the air.
