5	4/19/2021	Participation in events or programs sponsored by educational institutions	DAYTON, Ohio (WKEF) - Severe weather season is here in the Miami Valley. Now is a great time to refresh your family on the severe weather plan for when severe weather strikes. Team tornado was created six years ago in order to educate local elementary students about severe weather and where they should go in the event of severe weather. In the past, there has been a large assembly for Team Tornado, but this year it's going virtual! The Tornado Team spoke to over 30 classes between 1st and 5th grade. The presentations primarily feature how to find a "safe spot" during a severe weather or tornado threat. The team explained what protocols are in place at the station to be prepared for severe weather. They discussed lightning safety and where the best place to go is when lightning is nearby. The goal is to schedule as many virtual presentations across the west central Ohio region during the severe weather season.	3	Chief Meteorologist Meteorologist Meteorologist
