

Response to Transferee Legal Certifications Question

This question is answered “no” because there are no agreements as contemplated by the question on the form. This transaction is an involuntary transfer of control of the parent corporation due to the death of the single majority stockholder.