

EXHIBIT REGARDING LAFF PROGRAMMING

Due to a technical error, from September 10, 2016 through October 15, 2016, the following core programs, designed specifically for children, aired on the LAFF network without the required E/I symbol:

- Food For Thought with Claire Thomas
- Jack Hanna's Animal Adventures
- Outback Adventures with Tim Faulkner
- Reluctantly Healthy

In total, 10.5 hours of core children's programming broadcast during the last three weeks of the 3rd quarter and the first three weeks of the 4th quarter did not include the required E/I symbol.

To address concerns regarding compliance with FCC requirements, during the fourth quarter, in addition to the regularly scheduled core children's programming, LAFF and the station re-broadcast the programming originally aired without the E/I symbol, along with one additional half-hour of children's programming. The re-broadcast and additional LAFF children's programming aired each Saturday, immediately following the regularly scheduled core programming, for six consecutive weeks beginning October 29, 2016 through December 3, 2016.

While the programming was re-aired with the E/I symbol, it was not regularly scheduled fourth quarter programming and, therefore, is not being reported as core programming. To accurately reflect the amount of children's educational programming provided during the fourth quarter, the station has reported the re-broadcast and additional LAFF programming as non-core educational and informational programming.

Upon notification from LAFF of the technical error, the station took every reasonable step to remedy the situation and provide the requisite, as well as additional, programming specifically designed to meet the educational and informational needs of children.
