

KCKN(AM), Roswell, NM
Form 303-S

Minimum Operating Schedule Certification

Based on review of its records and its FCC filings, KCKN(AM) went silent in order to make repairs to its transmitter beginning on January 26, 2017, and did not resume full-time, full power operations until April 3, 2017. Then, on June 11, 2018, the station's transmitter caught fire and burned completely to the ground. Due to extensive damage to the station's electrical system, the power company needed to replace the electrical system. KCKN resumed operation on May 19, 2019, with its licensed parameters but at reduced power while repairs to its facilities continued.