Hi Josh,

We have been in touch with the site manager and he has provided us with photos and some site details.

It is a difficult site to get to since there is no road to the site just a walking trail.

We also found out that the helicopter company servicing the site lost it's pilot and helicopter in an accident. Here is a link to the article:

<https://www.wcax.com/2023/10/09/helicopter-crashes-shortly-after-takeoff-new-hampshire-killing-pilot/>.

The helicopter company is currently helping a ski resort installing a new chair lift before and so they are going to be busy for a number of weeks before they can help us out.

It would be difficult to do this project once it starts to snow. We would have to wait till spring to get it done.

Let us know if you have any questions.

Thanks
