

Environmental Assessment Exhibit

The instant application puts a channel sharing agreement previously approved by the Commission back into place pursuant to direction of the FCC staff. As such, there would be no environmental effects by processing and grant of this application. The Commission separately reviews and acts upon construction permit and license applications for the shared station operation, which in any event, is for a low power television station.