

FCC Forms 315
Licensee Section III, Question 6
K-Six Television, Inc.
Corpus Christi Broadcasting Co., Inc.

Exhibit 9

In 1996, the U.S. Department of Justice filed a civil antitrust complaint against K-Six Television, Inc. ("K-Six"). K-Six denied the allegations set forth in that complaint. To avoid the distraction of costly and time-consuming litigation, without admitting any violation of the law and without being subject to any monetary penalties, K-Six agreed to the entry of a civil Final Judgment, dated as of January 10, 1997, which prohibits K-Six from engaging in certain practices related to retransmission consent matters for a period of 10 years.

While no adverse findings were made against K-Six, and K-Six does not consider this an adverse final action required to be reported under Section III, Question 6 of FCC Form 315, this is being reported out of an abundance of caution.
