Federal Communications Commission

On April 8, 2001, the main transmitter of KVHH-LP failed. Upon arriving at the transmitter site, it was determined that the transmitter had to be replaced with our backup transmitter.

The transmitter output power required to reach our effective radiated power of 100 watts is 290 watts. Our backup transmitter is only capable of 150 watts output putting us below the required power to reach our effective radiated power. Our current ERP is 53 watts.

This Special Temporary Authority is a request to run at this reduced power until our main transmitter can be repaired and reinstalled.

Sincerely,

Gary Shriver
