Rice. Executive Board

Bird Street Media Project is a non-commercial educational low-power radio station which is: information free from corporate interests; a voice for the voiceless; democracy in action; indigenous/local culture and language; local values, lost dog reports; a forum for in-depth community discussion; exposure to a variety of cultures, music and opinions; cheap; an outlet for genius and disaster, a mirror for the community; an opportunity to participate and learn; real voices, real feelings. It's fun, entertaining, scandalous, not virtual, and a celebration. It helps people find each other.
