What Does the Internet Sound Like ?

Lisbon, Portugal

November 29 - December 1, 2013

ART FM will participate in the 2013 stress.fm ECHOS project "What does the Internet Sound Like?"

Computers talk to each other all the time, in code and in voltage, almost telepathically and at the speed of light. This is a conversation that excludes those of us unable to read between the lines or who are deaf to this soft music. To live in the world today is to be surrounded by a constant humming, the body electric, the senses extended and transformed by all that we own, all that we have built. We live inside the machines. What does it sound like? Stream in to stress.fm from November 29 - December 1, 2013 to find out!

UNSILENT NIGHT

Dreamland Plaza. NuLu
December 15, 2012

Unsilent Night is an original composition by Phil Kline, written specifically to be heard outdoors in the month of December. It takes the form of a street promenade in which the audience becomes the performer. Each participant gets one of four tracks of music in the form of a cassette, CD, or Mp3. Together all four tracks comprise Unsilent Night. The fact that the participants play different "parts" simultaneously helps create the special sound of the piece. Participants carry boomboxes, or anything that amplifies music, and simultaneously start playing the music. They then walk a carefully chosen route through their city's streets, creating a unique mobile sound sculpture which is different from every listener's perspective.
