

GOVERNMENT CAMP, OREGON

Government Camp easily qualifies as a community for FCC allotment purposes. It is located near Mt. Hood and, as such, its economy revolves around skiing and tourism. Government Camp has its own unique history and identity. Government Camp was established in 1849. That was when the first U.S. regiment of Mounted Riflemen crossed the plains into Oregon country arriving at The Dalles. Most of the troops and their equipment were transported down river to Vancouver, Washington by boat, and the remaining troops expected to follow when boats became available. Plans changed, however, and the troops were ordered to proceed to Oregon City by the Oregon Trail. Bogged down by mud and snow, with half their livestock lost or dead and soldiers near exhaustion, they abandoned 45 cavalry wagons in October 1849, before starting down Laurel Hill. The troops noted presence besides the Barlow Road became the namesake of the alpine village – Government Camp. Barlow Road allowed thousands of Oregon Trail emigrants to travel overland to the Willamette Valley rather than risk floating the dangerous Columbia River. Travelers went through what is now the village of Government Camp, proceeding west towards the infamous Laurel Hill. The U.S. Postal Service associates ZIP code 97028 with Government Camp. According to the 2004 Rand McNally Commercial Atlas and Marketing Guide, Government Camp has a population of 420 persons. Government Camp is home to numerous hotels and lodges such as Thunderhead Lodge, Falcon's Crest Inn, Huckleberry Inn, Mount Hood Inn, and Little Trail Lodge. It is also home to Mount Hood Brewing Company and Mount Hood Academy. Government Camp's community showing is bolstered by statements from local residents indicating they view Government Camp as a separate and distinct community, separate and distinct from any neighboring community. *Id.
