

Anderson Park.

Carrboro Day is the first Sunday in May. There's live music, books, plants and history. Carrboro Branch Library has a used book and food sale and Carrboro Community Garden Club has a free plant exchange. Fun and games for all!

We have a free Fishing Rodeo every year in June at Strayhorn Pond, where the Town provides poles and bait, handing out prizes in a variety of categories, followed by a free hot dog lunch. There is also a series of Horseshoe Tournaments offered by the Town during the summer months. Carrboro Rec & Parks offers more info on these and other events.

Then comes a huge Fourth of July celebration that begins at Weaver Street Market with opportunities to create hats and other patriotic stuff, decorate yourself, your bike, your wagon, your stroller or anything else you want. There's live music, a costume contest, and Carrboro's Community Parade down Weaver Street to Town Hall. Once there you'll find more live music and performances, and loads of other fun stuff, with fireworks that night at dusk at Kenan Stadium on the UNC Campus, in conjunction with the Town of Chapel Hill.

We have a fun free Halloween Carnival on October 31 that features games, prizes and awards for outstanding costumes. This family-friendly event is a great alternative to Chapel Hill's annual Franklin St. celebration, geared toward folks with younger kids, but lots of fun for people of any age.

2006 brings a new event to Carrboro, the Carrboro Film Festival, featuring the work of area filmmakers, slated to debut on the third Sunday of November, this year November 19, in Century Hall at the Century Center.

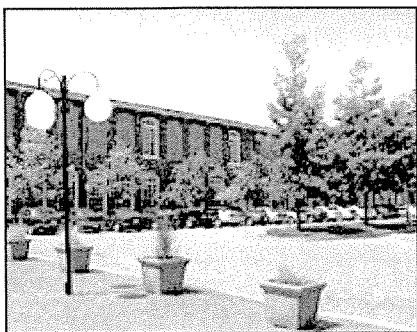

The first Saturday in December we join Chapel Hill for our annual holiday parade, beginning at Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill and ending at Carrboro Town Hall.

Carrboro also plays host to the annual Community Dinner, celebrating our diverse community with food from Mama Dip's Country Kitchen and numerous local restaurants and supporters, and entertainment representing various cultures within our community. This event occurs at McDougle Schools Cafetorium, in 2006 in March.

Town Commons is also the starting and finishing point for the annual Crop Walk in March, which raises money to feed the area homeless.

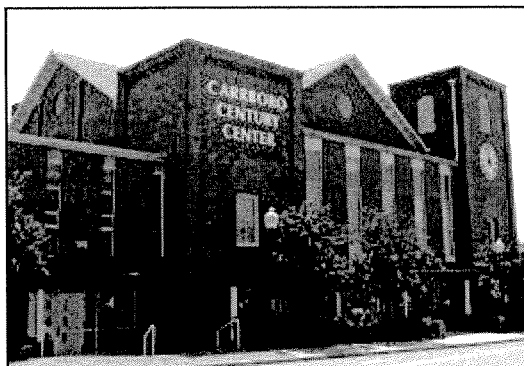

Another Carrboro/Chapel Hill collaboration is the Community Art Project in April and May. A volunteer committee with residents from both towns comes up with a theme each year, calling for participants of all ages, artist or not, to create art based on the designated theme. The resulting art is then displayed in venues all over Carrboro and Chapel Hill. This event is funded by the Chapel Hill Arts Commission.

In 1975 the old hosiery mill in the heart of downtown Carrboro, known as Alberta, was purchased, and after an $8.5 million renovation was converted into Carr Mill Mall, which opened in 1977. Today it's home to a number of art galleries and shops featuring unique, high quality merchandise.

In the late 90's the old Carrboro Baptist Church in the center of downtown was purchased by the town, renovated, and in 2001 opened as the Century Center, a community center that is the host to many classes, events and gatherings, and is available for rental.

It features several meeting rooms, a large auditorium with a stage, grand piano, dance floor, and plenty of space for events. In addition to the Carrboro Branch Library, located in McDougle Middle School, in 2004 The Cybrary opened in the Century Center, giving folks a high tech library to go to downtown.

These are just some of the things that come to mind when I think about what Carrboro has given me, my family and friends. If you have information about Carrboro that you think people would find interesting or informative, e-mail carrboro.com. We need your info!

It's our goal to use this site to bring back some of the community values that are so often lacking in modern America. We are a community of people who want to live in a place where we can feel safe walking down the street at night. With a community effort, we have strived to make Carrboro that kind of town. In Carrboro, we like to look out for one another, get to know and learn from our neighbors, and help anyone who's willing to help themselves.

If you think places like this don't exist anymore, you're wrong. We may be small, but in the words of author Stephen Batchelor, "It is also possible to imagine a community of friendships in which diversity is celebrated rather than censured. In which smallness of scale is regarded as success rather than failure."

*All we try to be are good honest folks.
Think of us as Mayberry meets the Metropolis.*

This is Carrboro.

The 9th Annual Carrboro Music Festival was September 24, 2006. Our day long, free festival featured numerous musical styles at 21 indoor and outdoor venues including The Carrboro Century Center, Cat's Cradle, Weaver Street Market, Armadillo Grill, Open Eye Cafe, The ArtsCenter, and the Carrboro Town Commons. The outdoor sites featured music until dark, while some of the indoor venues went until midnight. As always, the event focused on a myriad of musical styles with 150 different musical aggregations, ranging in size from solo artists to a seven piece World Music band.

As festival coordinator for the fifth year, Gerry Williams observed, "This is the most incredible music event that I have been involved with during my thirty year professional career in and around the world of music. Unlike many aspects of the music business, this is entirely about celebrating our community and its music. The range and quality of what we see and hear each year is simply amazing!"

The Town Commons was again the hot spot for kids this year, featuring a Castle Bounce House, a Scramble Slide and a variety of kid's activities including the arts and crafts of Ellen's Kids' Corner and a visit from Mother Goose's cousin Lulu the Love Fairy. We also featured a nice variety of food and drink concessions, tasty treats available for purchase next to Town Hall. Thanks for patronizing our vendors! Their revenues help keep our free festival going!

Carrboro Poet Laureate

Kate Lovelady chosen as Carrboro's Poet Laureate

"It's an honor to be the first poet laureate for a town that values and supports the arts as much as Carrboro, and quite humbling for an area with so many talented writers. I look forward to coming down from my mill house garret and trying to serve the vision of the community. I hope having a poet laureate will help raise awareness of poetry in Carrboro and inspire others to write, especially young people. I see writing as one of the best ways of developing imagination and self-awareness and compassion. As an Ethical Culture leader-in-training I've been reconceiving writing as a way not only to express one's own feelings, but also to understand others and to find common ground."

Carrboro poet Kate Lovelady has been chosen to serve as Poet Laureate of Carrboro for a one-year term beginning on July 4th. Lovelady was one of six applicants for the designation, each of whom submitted a poem based on the theme "Independence Day 2002." She will be inaugurated and read her selected entry, "Report from the Curb," at Carrboro's Independence Day celebration.

The search for the town's first poet laureate was conducted by the Carrboro Art Committee, with blind judging by Chapel Hill poet and essayist Michael Chitwood. (Blind judging = the judge does not know who wrote what.) Chitwood commented on Lovelady's entry prior to being let in on her identity. "I selected 'Report from the Curb' because of the imagination employed to see the parade as the body of Carrboro itself. It's hard to make generalizations from just one poem but it seemed to me that the poet had a documentary impulse that I thought would serve the Carrboro poet laureate well. Now, who did I pick?"

"Carrboro is the only town in North Carolina (we think) ever to appoint a poet laureate," says Art Committee chair Catherine DeVine. "We designed the search protocol like an audition that treated every applicant fairly. When I telephoned Kate last night, I felt like Ed McMahon." Lovelady was hosting her writers' group when DeVine called with the news.

Michael Chitwood's involvement in the process added quality to the search, according to DeVine, in several ways. "Mike knows the art and the science of poetry, and he knows Carrboro." Chitwood applauds the inclusion of poetry in his neighboring town's public art scene: "I'm pleased to see a town recognizing what many of us already know, which is that poetry is a vital part of daily life. I would encourage the laureate to do everything that he or she can to make sure people know where to find and enjoy poetry."

Town of Carrboro

The Town of Carrboro welcomes you to the Town's official web site! We hope you find the site useful, easy to navigate, and informative. Please come back often to see how we expand and grow!

Carrboro, settled in 1882 around a railroad spur of UNC, was first known as West End because of its geographical location west of Chapel Hill. Incorporated in 1911 as Venable, the town made its final name change two years later in honor of Julian Shakespeare Carr, owner of the local textile mill. For the first fifty years after its incorporation, Carrboro remained a small mill town with a slow, steady pace of growth. In 1960, approximately 2000 people lived in the town. By the year 2000, the town's population had grown to over 16,000 residents. (click HERE to view Carrboro's demographics)

Neighborhood Associations

The Town of Carrboro is interested in communicating with all Carrboro citizens. One method of communications is through established neighborhood associations. Last year, the Town staff successfully met with five associations. The meetings were very productive for gathering information, discussing issues of concern and dissemination of information regarding Town services and policies by senior Town staff and the manager.

The Town would like to expand this program by meeting with more associations. To accomplish this goal, it is requested that the existing neighborhood associations register with the Town's Department of Economic and Community Development.

Register your Neighborhood Association

- By phone: 919-918-7318
- Online: www.townofcarrboro.org
- By Mail:
Neighborhood Associations

To register please include the below Neighborhood Association information:

Welcome families, to our child care centers. We are a Five-Star licensed program that offers care for children from 6 weeks of age to 5 years of age. We are pleased to be a part of your children's lives and beginning education. We pledge to do all we can to make you comfortable in our school and invite your participation in all activities.

PHILOSOPHY

At Carrboro Early School we believe each child holds in himself unlimited potential to learn, to grow, to thrive. Our goal is to give each child the love, care and support they need to reach their potential. We realize that although we spend an invaluable amount of time with children, it is the family that exerts the most influence in a child's life. In order to make a difference in a child's life outcome, we know we must provide support to the family. Our primary responsibility to the family is providing the best possible childcare. Secondly, we must be a resource and referral when a family has a need, and when necessary we must become personally involved to help bring about successful resolutions to problems. Our desire is to build a relationship with families that will allow us to work together to create the best possible start in life for the children.
