

LPFM Downtown Tucson began establishing its community presence in January 2011 when Chet Gardiner invited Jason LeValley to help him get the word out about LPFM. They formed a web site called Community Radio Tucson (communityradiotucson.org) to educate Tucson citizens about the unique opportunity to start community radio stations in their part of town. Attached in this exhibit are the domain registration confirmation dated March 22, 2011, and an invitation to attend a workshop that we held at Access Tucson, where the station will be headquartered, for people and groups interested in forming their own LPFM stations. This email, also included here, is dated October 16th, 2011. If you check the Community Radio Tucson web site, you will see an item stating that the original organization has morphed into LPFM Downtown Tucson.

Since then, LPFM Downtown Tucson hosted two well-attended benefit shows featuring local bands and was mentioned on four separate occasions in the Tucson Weekly (<http://www.tucsonweekly.com/tucson/dreamtopia-benefit-for-lpfm-downtown-tucson-blind-divine-saint-maybe-some-of-them-are-old/Event?oid=3594667>), (<http://www.tucsonweekly.com/tucson/soundbites/Content?oid=3369246>), (<http://www.tucsonweekly.com/tucson/messina/Content?oid=3168567>), (<http://www.tucsonweekly.com/tucson/city-week/Content?oid=3368766>) and once in the Daily Star (http://azstarnet.com/entertainment/music/holy-empire-is-rolling-out-of-town/article\_0d5a4475-5e83-5a62-923a-545a8d5217f7.html).

We have made appearances to disseminate information about LPFM at events like Tucson Meet Yourself and the Peace Fair. We have been meeting as a group every two to four weeks at various local businesses. LPFM Tucson has been featured many times on Access Tucson, the community's local cable access channel, and the planned home of LPFM Downtown Tucson. In fact, the LPFM workshop that Chet and Jason conducted for Access Tucson has been aired on the station approximately 120 times. The La Cocina fundraising concert has aired approximately 30 times while the Dreamtopia benefit for LPFM Downtown Tucson is currently in rotation on Access Tucson. Additionally, we are partnered with Access Tucson, which has an established community presence of 30 years.

Community Radio Tucson will present a Community Radio Workshop

on

Sunday, October 23rd, 2011

in Studio "A" at Access Tucson, 124 E Broadway Blvd. (near 6th Ave) starting at 1pm.

Participants will learn; What IS Low Power FM Radio, some of the FCC requirements for LPFM, the need for a nonprofit to apply for an LPFM license, how to meet the localism requirement, how to change your bylaws and how to develop an educational mission to satisfy FCC requirements for a non-profit, educational radio license.

We will also discuss community radio in general, who are our communities and what the basic financial commitment will be.

If you're interested in more community voices on the airwaves here in Tucson, please come and join us.

To the Federal Communications Commission:

We, the undersigned, attest to the fact that LPFM Downtown Tucson, Inc began as Community Radio Tucson in early 2011.

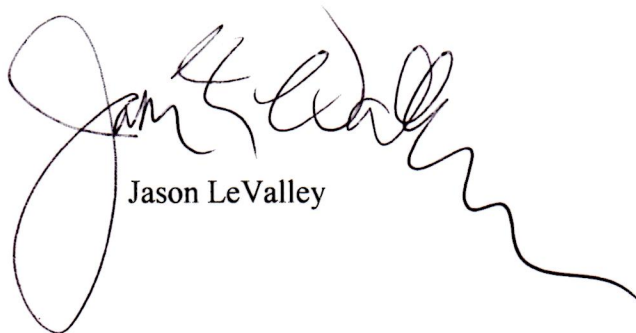

Charles Gardiner, in partnership with Jason LeValley, registered the domain name communityradiotucson.org on March 22, 2011.

After organizing numerous community events and presentations and gathering together a core group to apply for an LPFM license, the principle organizers of Community Radio Tucson then incorporated as LPFM Downtown Tucson, Inc. for the specific purpose of building a downtown LPFM station at the headquarters of Access Tucson.

Respectfully,

Charles Gardiner

Jason LeValley
