

May 29, 2000

To Whom it may concern,

The Indiana Historic Radio Museum was established in 1994 by the Indiana Historical Radio Society which was incorporated as a 501C3 entity October 10, 1972.

The museum is located in Ligonier, Indiana, a rural area with very little media coverage.

The city of Ligonier has been extremely interested in the LPFM station. It would fill a void in communications that we have. The West Noble School Corporation would like to involve students in the hands on operation of the station.

An LPFM station would give rural kids the chance to be competitive for communications degrees at Indiana universities of which our state has several outstanding schools.

We have a large Hispanic community that would make use of the station and the school is interested in teaching English via the LPFM station.

The area has a need for an LPFM station and we are respectfully requesting consideration for one.

Thankyou,

Marcella Schultz

Marcella Schultz

IHRM assistant curator

800 South Lincolnway • Ligonier, Indiana 46767