K14KW Salt Creek, Oregon

Operation of the proposed station will not have a significant environmental impact.

RFR levels are predicted to be within permissible limits. The rural nature of the site is such that the facility is not likely to be visited by the public.

Occupational exposure in the area of concern for potential RFR will be time limited so as to not exceed the time-averaged MPE limit, and when necessary, the facility will cease operation until work within the area of concern has been completed.
