

Southern California Public Radio (“SCPR”) is a California-based, independent, nonprofit, member-supported organization with the mission of providing a high-quality news and information service through radio and other interactive media. In addition to broadcasting nationally syndicated public radio programs such as A Prairie Home Companion and All Things Considered, SCPR’s programming includes local and regional news and talk programs covering political and cultural issues relevant to the Southern California community; these include AirTalk, The California Report, FilmWeek, Latino USA, The Loh Life, Off-Ramp and Patt Morrison.

Please refer to exhibit 10 attached to Form 316 for a list of SCPR’s Board of Trustees and its Articles of Incorporation.

SCPR’s mission statement is as follows:

Southern California Public Radio is a tax-exempt nonprofit organization that produces and acquires programming of community value and combines these programs into a nonprofit radio service of the highest quality for broadcast to the people of Southern California and the nation, including the production and broadcast of local, West Coast and Pacific Rim news and information programming.
