| Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming. | Each show visits several different areas of the St. Louis, MO Zoo, studying aspects of habitat, lifetime, feeding and social characteristics of various species. In any given show the viewer may learn about camels, eagles and iguana. The next episode may touch on baby hippos, ocelots and flamingo and so forth. Each segment features an expert zoo employee/handler/zoologist who explains in easy-to-understand terms what's interesting about the topic species. Kid interviewers talk to the "kid on the street" in between segments to gain kid visitor reaction to the many zoo exhibits. Each program is an independent show with no ties or lead-ins to other shows. |
