Include any other comments or information you want the Commission to consider in evaluating your compliance with the Children's Television Act (or use this space for supplemental explanations). This may include information on any other noncore educational and informational programming that you aired this quarter or plan to air during the next quarter, or any existing or proposed non-broadcast efforts that will enhance the educational and informational value of such programming to children. See 47 C.F.R. Section 73.671, NOTES 2 and 3.	Station WZVN has a commitment to air public service announcements that specifically address issues facing young people such as cyber bullying, internet safety, health hazards of smoking, texting while driving, school bus stop safety, stranger danger and other perils community youngster encounter. This quarter WZVN spearheaded a 10 week program to promote the enjoyment and educational benefits of reading. In conjunction with Disney and firstbook.org WZVN promoted and financially sponsored an outreach campaign for under privileged student organizations and classrooms to visit the website and request books from the program the Magic of Storytelling. Based on the success of this national initiative, WZVN expanded the program locally with the assistance of area Kwani's Clubs by purchasing and distributing some 2,400 books to four title one schools. Each Monday in May WZVN anchors visited a school and handed out books to the students. WZVN supports the STEM program locally, a collaboration between area businesses and school systems to promote the advancement of educational training and specialization in the areas of Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics with onsite education paths in the broadcasting industry for both teachers and students. WZVN news anchors, reporters, meteorologists and management are also available for classroom visits throughout the school year and other speaking engagements for various groups and organizations. Additionally, numerous WZVN representatives are active throughout the community, some in high profile, decision rendering roles, serving on public service and charity organization committees and boards and volunteering through non profit groups that specifically promote the well being of our area youth. Upon request classrooms and organizations can tour the station facilities learning more about how the departments function and potential careers to consider in the industry.
