Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	GIVE introduces viewers to the world of philanthropy through the stories of small charities making a big impact. The series features NBC News correspondent and the founder of UNICEF's Next Generation Jenna Bush Hager, esteemed actor Blair Underwood, and passionate celebrity philanthropists from film, television, music, sports and business who are all a mission to inspire others to do good. In each episode one of these celebrity ambassadors will visit two charities that use innovation, best practices, and dedication for change in their communities and the world. With the help of some of the country's top foundations, we'll meet these inspiring individuals to see how they do it through the eyes of our celebrity ambassadors. It fits the definition of core programming as follows: serves the educational/informational needs of children ages 16 and under as a significant purpose; airs between 7am and 10pm; is regularly scheduled weekly; is at least 30 minutes in length; targets children 13-16 years of age; is identified as educational/informational throughout the program and necessary information for listing the program as educational/informational is made available to publishers of programming guides.
