Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	"Origins" is a high energy, high interest program about the origins of objects people see and use daily, along with inventions that change the world. The average edit of less than 3 seconds matches the target viewer's snappy visual expectations. The soundtrack is effective and pervasive and the narration self-assured with the right level of imbued excitement. The subject matter is engaging with a solid, fact-based spine. It complements nicely the dominant educational strategy for media to provoking thought and exploration without heavy reliance on questions with a right or wrong answer. The exceptional approach to content provides factual awe that leads to wonder, thinking, and conclusions by viewers. This is the goal of both social studies and science pedagogy into which "Origins" aligns. Simulcast from WBGT.
