Charlie is an Ecologist and Kirby is an Artist, and they are both National Geographic Junior Explorers. Together, they share a common curiosity to explore and understand the science behind the world and its wildlife. In this series, Charlie and Kirby explore a new topic each week to uncover the "Weird But True" science at play all around us. Our hosts inspire teens to question the HOW and WHY behind the way our world works, and encourage them to discover answers to their most curious questions.
