Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	America's Heartland is a weekly series featuring everyday Americans and their families, telling fascinating stories across America's heartland. From learning how to make maple syrup to riding with teenage ranchers, this series explores various ways of life, showcasing the diversity of how Americans live and work. It is a prominent offering of positive stories about American agriculture. America's Heartland has given hundreds of farm and ranch families across all 50 states the opportunity, in their own words, to share the diverse story of agriculture with consumers. Through the show's programming these agriculturalists have been able to emotionally connect urban and rural viewers alike. Their stories forged common ground to unite through values and needs, more than about just the essentials like food and shelter, but about our love for families and generations to come, an appreciation for the land, and caring for the environment.
