Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Finding stuff out is a lively science oriented series, which instead of imposing adult notions on kids about what they should know, gives them what they want: answers to the questions that matter to them the most! Educational studies shows that learning that involves strong emotions, especially humor, stays with us the longest. Finding stuff out uses an approach that is funny and witty - never earnest - to encourage kids to watch and remember what they learned. To heighten that fun, entertaining experience, it will also be highly visual, using energetic youthful hosts, colorful in studio demonstrations, eye catching video packs, and simple yet playful animation. Finding stuff out will further relate to its audience by using real children, both in the studio and "streeters." It all adds up to a fun and insightful show that isn't about science per se, but rather a show that uses science and some exciting situations to fascinate children myriad of questions that kids have about the world around them.

Include any other comments or information you want the Commission to consider in evaluating your compliance with the Children's Television Act (or use this space for supplemental explanations). This may include information on any other noncore educational and informational programming that you aired this quarter or plan to air during the next quarter, or any existing or proposed non-broadcast efforts that will enhance the educational and informational value of such programming to children. See 47 C.F.R. Section 73.671, NOTES 2 and 3.	Station continues to require programmers operating under LMA's to provide children's programming. However, out of an abundance of caution, Station continues to preempt LMA programmed channels to insert core programming at regularly scheduled times. On question 10 the printable, pre-filing version of the form shows 2 preemptions for Animal Atlas. However, there were no preemptions. Licensee cannot seem to remove the 2 preemptions from the pr-filled form that existed in Q1 2015.
