Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Animal science is an educational and informational program that provides interesting factoids about a variety of animals. It targets the 13 to 16 year old age group, but is also a highly entertaining program for a more general audience, in particular younger children, 8-12. With a quick moving segments, and "cool" graphics this program is sure to capture the interest of the intended audience. This program is well paced for the target audience. The show and each segment are introduced with a question designed to peak curiosity, similar to the anticipatory set in a lesson. The format allows for discussion and the making of predictions, making it ideal for the classroom. Each segment is united by a theme: fastest, largest, etc. In a tight, well edited format, the answers the question posed for each segment are revealed, along with interesting facts provided by an expert. The program is narrated by an enthusiastic host, with a young, modern vocal style that will be engaging to the target audience. The graphics are innovative and very high-tech and futuristic in appearance, which will also connect and draw in the audience. The experts were well chosen and seemed very eager and approachable. As someone who considers themselves to be highly knowledgeable about animals, who matches programs similar in content to Animal Science, I learned several new facts. Professionally, my job requires that I participate in the development of educational curriculum. Charged with educating students, I am always on the lookout for tools that will link students to the material in a meaningful and engaging way. This program would be ideal for connecting students to a variety of topics in the science content areas.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Elizabeth Stanton's Great Big World provides dynamic core programming in the areas of particular concern to young teens; including global, social, educational, and wellness issues. Award-winning teen hostess Elizabeth Stanton and select celebrity friends travel around the world volunteering in areas of specific need - ranging from feeding the hungry in the slums of Kenya to bringing hearing aids To Vietnamese neighborhoods whose citizens have experienced high rates of profound deafness and hearing loss. Great Big world offers a dynamic television experience for teens - combining the exciting, fun, and diverse experiences of world exploration with the life-changing volunteer opportunities available in these same areas. Various age-appropriate global issues are introduced to the viewing audience through in-depth and thoughtful interviews with Elizabeth, her travel buddies, and the friends they meet along their journey. In addition, Elizabeth and friends' personal hands-on experiences in the field both inspire teens to engage in selfless, helping behaviors in addition to educating them on where and how to find volunteer opportunities.

The program is narrated by an enthusiastic host, with a young, modern vocal style that will be engaging to the target audience. The graphics are innovative and very high-tech and futuristic in appearance, which will also connect and draw in the audience. The experts were well chosen and seemed very eager and approachable. As someone who considers themselves to be highly knowledgeable about animals, who matches programs similar in content to Animal Science, I learned several new facts. Professionally, my job requires that I participate in the development of educational curriculum. Charged with educating students, I am always on the lookout for tools that will link students to the material in a meaningful and engaging way. This program would be ideal for connecting students to a variety of topics in the science content areas.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Elizabeth Stanton's Great Big World provides dynamic core programming in the areas of particular concern to young teens; including global, social, educational, and wellness issues. Award-winning teen hostess Elizabeth Stanton and select celebrity friends travel around the world volunteering in areas of specific need - ranging from feeding the hungry in the slums of Kenya to bringing hearing aids To Vietnamese neighborhoods whose citizens have experienced high rates of profound deafness and hearing loss. Great Big world offers a dynamic television experience for teens - combining the exciting, fun, and diverse experiences of world exploration with the life-changing volunteer opportunities available in these same areas. Various age-appropriate global issues are introduced to the viewing audience through in-depth and thoughtful interviews with Elizabeth, her travel buddies, and the friends they meet along their journey. In addition, Elizabeth and friends' personal hands-on experiences in the field both inspire teens to engage in selfless, helping behaviors in addition to educating them on where and how to find volunteer opportunities.
