Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Come spend a day in the life with the monsters at Wimzies house and youll never want to go home. Its the magical kind of daycare that leads to delightful adventures for the pre-school child. All of the characters are wild and wooly on the outside - but definitely human on the inside.After spending a half hour in this very special home away from home, no one will leave the world of Wimzie unchanged. It is the world where the real and the imaginary come together, where self esteem is the order of the day, where the emotions and the relationships of today's preschoolers, who are growing up to be ten in the year 2000, are on the top of the list of story material. Five year old Wimzie and her mother Graziella, an airline pilot, live in Yayas house as does Rousso, Yayas best friend - even if Yaya is at least one hundred years and fifty years old (and counting) and Russo is much more than a hundred years her younger. Graziella is more than ecstatic to have found a warm and comfortable home as well as a loving environment for her daughter, Wimzie, while she is off on her somewhat unorthodox work schedule flying around the world. It is within this setting that we meet Jonas, Archibald, Loulou, Horace, and Azuline as they work out the relationships that grow out of being together every day, of growing up just a little bit every day. They learn not only about themselves but also about the world outside the door: music, nature, art and fun are woven with a touch of humour throughout a storyline solidly crafted on socio-affective objectives. Music, songs, the art of discovery. Rhymes, magic, the sharing of secrets with friends. Storytime, word games, the acceptance of your way. This is what Wimzie brings into the viewers home. A daycare full of little monsters - what could be more real? Conflict, difficulty, resolution, triumph. Laughter, tears, anger and joy. Wimzie is a world of enchantment.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Here is the ultimate extreme action hero... an international defender of a defenseless world... ACTION MAN. Action Man is truly a man without a past. His memories were destroyed and all records of his identity erased. Nonetheless, he resolutely defends the future of freedom while trying to unravel the tantalizing mystery of his own origins. Action Man is the head of an elite multinational task force - the Action Team - composed of ace pilot Natalie (Great Britain), computer genius Jacques (France) and ex-Marine commando-about-town Knuck (United States). Their mandate: to oppose and capture the global super-criminal known only as Doctor X. From Space Station X-treme (their high-tech headquarters in orbit around Earth), Action Man and the team can be deployed anywhere on the planet in just minutes, thanks to Jet X-treme, a supersonic battle-craft equally at home in air or space. Under the direction of Secretary-General Norris of the World Security Council, whenever Doctor X rears his malevolent head, the Action Team will be there. This series comes to life via - Multimation - combining traditional animation, live-action footage and computer graphics in a unique look designed to keep your eyes glued to the screen - while the extreme, non-stop action keeps you on the edge of your seat!

Total times aired at regularly scheduled time 13

Length of Program 30 mins

Age of Target Child Audience from 3 years to 5 years

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Come spend a day in the life with the monsters at Wimzies house and youll never want to go home. Its the magical kind of daycare that leads to delightful adventures for the pre-school child. All of the characters are wild and wooly on the outside - but definitely human on the inside.After spending a half hour in this very special home away from home, no one will leave the world of Wimzie unchanged. It is the world where the real and the imaginary come together, where self esteem is the order of the day, where the emotions and the relationships of today's preschoolers, who are growing up to be ten in the year 2000, are on the top of the list of story material. Five year old Wimzie and her mother Graziella, an airline pilot, live in Yayas house as does Rousso, Yayas best friend - even if Yaya is at least one hundred years and fifty years old (and counting) and Russo is much more than a hundred years her younger. Graziella is more than ecstatic to have found a warm and comfortable home as well as a loving environment for her daughter, Wimzie, while she is off on her somewhat unorthodox work schedule flying around the world. It is within this setting that we meet Jonas, Archibald, Loulou, Horace, and Azuline as they work out the relationships that grow out of being together every day, of growing up just a little bit every day. They learn not only about themselves but also about the world outside the door: music, nature, art and fun are woven with a touch of humour throughout a storyline solidly crafted on socio-affective objectives. Music, songs, the art of discovery. Rhymes, magic, the sharing of secrets with friends. Storytime, word games, the acceptance of your way. This is what Wimzie brings into the viewers home. A daycare full of little monsters - what could be more real? Conflict, difficulty, resolution, triumph. Laughter, tears, anger and joy. Wimzie is a world of enchantment.
