Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Career Day is a television program that introduces our youth to career exploration and awareness. Students often do not know what they want to do and are unsure of potential interests they may have that could be a career. Career Day provides an avenue to view experts in their respective fields as they discuss their work, the education/training needed to prepare for the job, and the experiences that led them to choose their career. To encourage students to make informed decisions, they must be introduced to career awareness, such as the concept that success in most careers requires education and training. Middle school is an ideal age at which to expose students to the challenging world of work. The program's motivational and inspirational message of each guest empowers audiences of all ages to investigate career opportunities, which has been proven to enhance academic performance, facilitate high school completion and encourage postsecondary education. Each segment of Career Day delivers an educational and informational message that supports current social, intellectual and emotional aspects of children ages 13 and up. Attributes and advice emphasized by guests instill a grounded balance of priorities, dedication, and perseverance children can apply to their lives.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	The Real Winning Edge highlights adolescents and young adults making the right choices when faced with tough decisions and significant challenges. Recognizing that 13 to 16-year-olds are likely to be influenced by celebrities, the series features role models from the professional sports and entertainment industries. Each episode is engaging, entertaining and educational in structure, presenting a powerful and positive message. The Winning Edge Series seeks to expose youth to other youth who have consistently made the behavior choices that have helped them have a greater sense of internal significance and acceptance, which results in a more self-directed personality. They are more able to negotiate the challenges inherent in life. The youth profiled in the series are chosen for their adoptions of pro-social values and principles that have become the ethos of their behavior. Thus the characteristics demonstrated by the stories of these youth give rise to adherence to these sound choices that have given them the real winning edge to life. The program promotes the values through these very engaging positive youth role models who are introduced by celebrities in the same talent field as the youth. The celebrities reinforce the values by calling attention to these youths' qualities as they are exhibited in the program.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Sports Stars of Tomorrow displays the hard work and dedication that it takes to be a true sports star. It chronicles the trials and tribulations of the young athletes as they strive to become a top level performer in the sports arena. The program helps youngsters realize that their full potential in both life and the playing field are attainable with lots of hard work and determination. It reinforces the importance of key values like dedication, discipline, commitment and community involvement. The show also provides in-depth, human interest stories that reveal the important challenges and lessons that mold our young athletes. Not everyone is cut out to be a superstar. Sports Stars of Tomorrow recognize those athletes that have learned life lessons along the way while battling varying obstacles. These stories inspire and teach youth that while many desire greatness on the grand stage of competition, much can be learned through the journey that can make a significant difference throughout one's life.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Career Day is a television program that introduces our youth to career exploration and awareness. Students often do not know what they want to do and are unsure of potential interests they may have that could be a career. Career Day provides an avenue to view experts in their respective fields as they discuss their work, the education/training needed to prepare for the job, and the experiences that led them to choose their career. To encourage students to make informed decisions, they must be introduced to career awareness, such as the concept that success in most careers requires education and training. Middle school is an ideal age at which to expose students to the challenging world of work. The program's motivational and inspirational message of each guest empowers audiences of all ages to investigate career opportunities, which has been proven to enhance academic performance, facilitate high school completion and encourage postsecondary education. Each segment of Career Day delivers an educational and informational message that supports current social, intellectual and emotional aspects of children ages 13 and up. Attributes and advice emphasized by guests instill a grounded balance of priorities, dedication, and perseverance children can apply to their lives.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	The Real Winning Edge highlights adolescents and young adults making the right choices when faced with tough decisions and significant challenges. Recognizing that 13 to 16-year-olds are likely to be influenced by celebrities, the series features role models from the professional sports and entertainment industries. Each episode is engaging, entertaining and educational in structure, presenting a powerful and positive message. The Winning Edge Series seeks to expose youth to other youth who have consistently made the behavior choices that have helped them have a greater sense of internal significance and acceptance, which results in a more self-directed personality. They are more able to negotiate the challenges inherent in life. The youth profiled in the series are chosen for their adoptions of pro-social values and principles that have become the ethos of their behavior. Thus the characteristics demonstrated by the stories of these youth give rise to adherence to these sound choices that have given them the real winning edge to life. The program promotes the values through these very engaging positive youth role models who are introduced by celebrities in the same talent field as the youth. The celebrities reinforce the values by calling attention to these youths' qualities as they are exhibited in the program.

This may include information on any other noncore educational and informational programming that you aired this quarter or plan to air during the next quarter, or any existing or proposed non-broadcast efforts that will enhance the educational and informational value of such programming to children. See 47 C.F.R. Section 73.671, NOTES 2 and 3.	"WNCF TRANSMITS ON RF CHANNEL 31 BUT IS KNOWN TO ITS VIEWING AUDIENCE AS CHANNEL 32. THE LATTER IS USED IN THIS REPORT TO IDENTIFY THE PROGRAMS AIRING ON EACH OF ITS MAIN AND MULTICAST STREAMS. The station airs two non-core E/I programs on Saturday mornings from 6-7 A.M. No local commercials are placed in any of the syndicated children's programs. Local time is filled with public service announcements targeting the youth, their parents, and care-givers. WNCF aired several news stories that featured, and informed the youth during the quarter. Golden Apple Awards were presented to teachers at Greenville Middle School, McKee Middle School in Montgomery, Banks Primary School in Pike County, Highland Home Elementary School in Highland Home, Autauga County Technology Center, Valley Grand Elementary School in Dallas County, Prattville Primary School, J.E. Terry in Dallas County, and Dalraida Elementary School in Montgomery. The teachers, along with their co-workers and some of their students were interviewed. Many of the teachers were nominated by the students and their parents. Some of the students' comments include "they were failing but are now on the A-B honor roll; the teacher uses interactive hands-on activities to make learning fun; she makes them work hard, and they have a good time; she's a mentor who helps them plan for their futures; she motivates them to do their best; she is teaching them to become teachers and teach others; she brings hands on learning into the classroom and lets her Math class sing to help them remember. She uses motions with a lot of songs, and a lot of things to address all learning styles, so the students can hear it, see it, say it, experience it; she loves them and teaches them everything - baking, crafts, interactive projects, etc." The news also featured stories on the culinary skills of students at a local school; a Career Academy that gave students and teachers the opportunity to talk about their specialized programs; upcoming enrollment for Pre-K and Magnet Schools; an Education Summit where Alabama's Pre-K program was the focus. It is one of the best in the Country, scoring 10 out of 10 for quality Pre-K; one of the State's top 100 schools that scored an A- in Academics, and a B for teachers' overall work; WNCF News Anchors who participated in Read Across America Day; Youth in Government Day that was designed for students to learn about local government and civic engagement. Students in grades 7-12 were selected to fill the Pike Road positions of Mayor and Town Council Members; AMSTI (Alabama Math, Science, Technology Initiative) which is now the largest Math and Science initiative in the world. A local student appeared on the station's Public Affairs Program, and several newscasts after coming up with, and organizing "The Dream Marches On Youth Day of Service", an idea of how youth could be involved in the 50th Anniversary of the Selma-Montgomery March. He found a way for them to do something positive today, but also connect with the history of 50 year ago. His idea drew people from all over the country who came to Montgomery to help clean up, and beautify the trail and homes along the trail, that the marchers took from St. Jude to the Alabama State Capitol. He got corporate sponsors, city and county departments, schools and colleges, even the media (WNCF), and others to partner with him in this day of service project. Many stories on Charter Schools (the Governor has now signed a bill allowing Charter schools to start in the state) were reported on to educate and inform parents and caregivers of the youth in our viewing area. Auditions for the Future Weather Forecasters were held during the quarter, and 12 winners ranging in age from 7 to 12 years old were chosen and given the opportunity to appear with Weather Anchor Elissia Wilson on the Early Morning News program each Friday starting in March and give the weather report. Total times aired at regularly scheduled time	13
Length of Program	30 mins
Age of Target Child Audience from	13 years to 16 years
Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Career Day is a television program that introduces our youth to career exploration and awareness. Students often do not know what they want to do and are unsure of potential interests they may have that could be a career. Career Day provides an avenue to view experts in their respective fields as they discuss their work, the education/training needed to prepare for the job, and the experiences that led them to choose their career. To encourage students to make informed decisions, they must be introduced to career awareness, such as the concept that success in most careers requires education and training. Middle school is an ideal age at which to expose students to the challenging world of work. The program's motivational and inspirational message of each guest empowers audiences of all ages to investigate career opportunities, which has been proven to enhance academic performance, facilitate high school completion and encourage postsecondary education. Each segment of Career Day delivers an educational and informational message that supports current social, intellectual and emotional aspects of children ages 13 and up. Attributes and advice emphasized by guests instill a grounded balance of priorities, dedication, and perseverance children can apply to their lives. (STATION BROADCASTS IN DIGITAL ONLY)
