Digital Core Programming

Question	Response
State the average number of hours of Core Programming per week broadcast by the station on its main program stream
State the average number of hours per week of free over-the-air digital video programming broadcast by the station on other than its main program stream
State the average number of hours per week of Core Programming broadcast by the station on other than its main program stream. See 47 C.F.R. Section 73.671:
Does the Licensee provide information identifying each Core Program aired on its station, including an indication of the target child audience, to publishers of program guides as required by 47 C.F.R. Section 73.673?
Does the Licensee certify that at least 50% of the Core Programming counted toward meeting the additional programming guideline (applied to free video programming aired on other than the main Yes No program stream) did not consist of program episodes that had already aired within the previous seven days either on the station's main program stream or on another of the station's free digital program streams?

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Dr. Leward Wonder, a Deaf engineer, spent many years running a successful research and development lab when he decided to leave the corporate world and set up a small inventor's lab where he can work on the kind of fun projects he enjoys, as well as creating a positive Christian work environment. He finds a location in Indiana and then gathers a team of highly creative Deaf friends who share his passion for invention, yet don't quite fit into the traditional corporate structure. Together, this sometimes goofy band of misfits create amazing inventions-and in the process, they learn more about God and each other.
