Length of Program	30 mins
Age of Target Child Audience	4 years to 8 years
Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Based on the book series by author/illustrator Bob Kolar it is set on a space station in an unknown solar system. Five animal characters and one three-eyed octopus populate the station. Each episode begins with an everyday conversation or incident that grows into an incident needing a solution. While these predicaments take place in a fantasy environment, the issues and resolutions resonate for a preschool audience. Kids see how the characters learn lessons for practical living.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	The program features a five-year-old "baby" chick that spends her days with her parents in their costume shop The Coop. The shop's one employee, Kelly, doubles as Chica's nanny. In each episode Chica develops or encounters a problem that she cannot immediately resolve. Usually her issues involve impulse control, distractibility, and judgment and inter-personal behaviors. She and Kelly usually work on the problem through an adventure - a fantasy transformation to animation to help the problem solving process.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Young, enthusiastic and passionate about food, Claire Thomas is the host who opens viewers' eyes to how everyday life can inspire culinary creations in FOOD FOR THOUGHT. Each episode informs and educates teens about the power of food as a tool for exploring new places, meeting new people and learning about different cultures. Claire serves as a role model for 13-16-year-old viewers by showing her passion for her family, life, and healthy living by sharing stories in the kitchen. Creative inspiration can come from any place at any time - sometimes from family, sometimes from friends, or even from bloggers needing her help.
