Include any other comments or information you want the Commission to consider in evaluating your compliance with the Children's Television Act (or use this space for supplemental explanations). This may include information on any other noncore educational and informational programming that you aired this quarter or plan to air during the next quarter, or any existing or proposed non-broadcast efforts that will enhance the educational and informational value of such programming to children. See 47 C.F. R. Section 73.671, NOTES 2 and 3.	During this quarter KATU supported the educational and informational needs of children with on-air news and local programming, and station projects. KATU news covered stories about a 6 year old girl overcoming her physical impairments to be able to snowboard, how to order healthy restaurant meals for kids, medical advances to treat heart defects in children, a new safe social network for kids through LEGO, Tooth Fairy Day, transgender school bathrooms, a new research study on childhood vaccinations, a kids' group suing the government over climate change, a fundraiser for local children's hospital, a bill about protecting from lead in school water, a reminder to keep hand sanitizer bottles away from children, good nutrition for children, a 6 year old raising money to help others, and how to avoid nursery injuries. AM Northwest aired segments on promoting kids' reading by sharing "shelfies" which are selfies with books or book shelves, and how to talk to children about death. Rootopia, an information and idea source in partnership with local sponsor, showed how kids can make sweet corn soup and protein black bean patties.
