Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	MLB Player Poll provides insight into the opinions and perspectives of Major League Baseball Players. Young viewers will be educated on how the game of baseball is played and provide instructions regarding the techniques that successful players use. The show also gleans insight into players' preferences in areas outside of baseball with topics like "What Career Interests You After You Retire From Baseball?", or "What Is Your Favorite City to Play In?" or "What Player From History Would You Most Like to Watch/Play For /Play Against?" It provides examples of healthy debate, expressing an opinion using supporting evidence and analyzing statistics using charts and graphs to confirm or refute a previous held belief. The results of the poll question that will serve as the heart of each episode will be represented graphically to help teenagers process similar information they will encounter in their adult lives. MLB Player Poll airs immediately before the Fox Network's coverage of Major League Baseball. Based on the FCC's staff advice, each episode is deemed to have been broadcast at its "regularly scheduled" time because the program aired in times that viewers were accustomed to seeing the program and, therefore, remained consistent with the audience's expectations. The schedule changes were reported to listing services.
