Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Horseland is an animated series about five girls and two boys who live in spectacular countryside that houses a farm called Horseland. Each of these main characters has a special horse whose personality is similar to its owner's. Horseland and its unique approach of integrating the personality of the main characters and animals serve to reinforce prosocial themes. Horseland is also a "coming of age" series in which viewers experience and learn from the social interactions, hopes, dreams, and even fears of this group of culturally diverse adolescents. From this background, the experiences of sharing, caring, compromise, friendship, respect, and competition emerge to provide the young viewers with social and emotional guidelines for better understanding many of the life-lessons they need to learn as they grow and develop. This program is specifically designed to further the educational and informational needs of children, has educating and informing children as a significant purpose, and otherwise meets the definition of Core Programming as specified in the Commission's rules.

Include any other comments or information you want the Commission to consider in evaluating your compliance with the Children's Television Act (or use this space for supplemental explanations). This may include information on any other noncore educational and informational programming that you aired this quarter or plan to air during the next quarter, or any existing or proposed non-broadcast efforts that will enhance the educational and informational value of such programming to children. See 47 C.F.R. Section 73.671, NOTES 2 and 3.	For WISC-TV only: The core E/I program Doodlebops (both episodes I and II) were preempted on Saturday, August 11, in order to air CBS News coverage of the announcement of Wisconsin congressman Paul Ryan as Mitt Romney's running mate. The episodes were made good twice -- later that morning at 11:00 AM and 11:30 AM, and again on Sunday, August 19 at 11 AM (I) and Saturday, August 25 at 11 AM (II) when it was decided that the original make goods had been insufficiently promoted. The second airings were promoted. The entire three-hour block of core E /I programs were preempted on Saturday, September 1, in order for CBS Sports to provide live coverage of NCAA Football: Notre Dame vs. Navy from Dublin, Ireland. The six half-hour programs were all made good and promoted as detailed in the report.
