Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Problem solving, at the young child's level, is modeled by a five year old 'baby' chick who faces pre-school issues such as impulse control, distractibility, judgment, and interpersonal behaviors. She, her nanny and friends move into a fantasy world where they come up with solutions that work on the real-world issues. Among specific topics this quarter: There's more than one way to have fun, if you're flexible in adjusting plans; Eating healthy foods, including fruits and vegetables, will give the energy needed to do what you'd like; you must take the time to practice to get better or develop your talent. Our #5845 Children's change : 15 spot ran 4x 7/4-7/6 for a later airing due to live Tour de France cycling coverage.

Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	Good go-to-bed routines are modeled by four preschool-aged puppets, who show tooth brushing and conversing quietly before falling asleep. Quiet time leads to fantasy adventures that help the four deal with pre-school issues like shyness, making friends and dealing with bullies. Episodes this quarter included themes of being afraid of the unknown and realizing that the fear may work both ways; friends need to listen and take turns, not be bossy; and taking something from home on a trip will help make the journey less strange. Describe the educational and informational objective of the program and how it meets the definition of Core Programming.	A little boy learns to focus to achieve success, to learn from failures, and to find alternatives when a first attempt doesn't work. Daydreams help him imagine world-wide trips that lead to his real-life problem solving. Specific story themes this quarter included: bigger is not always better; listening is more than hearing words, it's also realizing the meaning behind the communication; and teamwork can help accomplish a group objective. Our #5845 Children's change :15 spot ran 4x 7/4-7/6 and announced the show's change to a new time this quarter. #5850 Children's Change :15 spot ran 7 times 7/10 to 7/11 after NBC's coverage of the Tour de France ran late and the show was joined at 11:09:59. The entire segment was rescheduled to Thursday, July 11 at noon.

Include any other comments or information you want the Commission to consider in evaluating your compliance with the Children's Television Act (or use this space for supplemental explanations). This may include information on any other noncore educational and informational programming that you aired this quarter or plan to air during the next quarter, or any existing or proposed non-broadcast efforts that will enhance the educational and informational value of such programming to children. See 47 C.F.R. Section 73.671, NOTES 2 and 3.	NBC3 continues its commitment to age-appropriate experiences and enrichment for Central New York children. Over the summer, on-air staffers did guest book reading at 16 area libraries. Our 'Book Breaks,' a tradition for over a quarter century, entertain hundreds of young children and help them avoid the 'summer slide' from reading inactivity, which would put them behind when they return to school. We do year-round station tours, job shadows and internships, aimed at helping young people understand our business and focus on preparing for careers, not only with the technical skills, but also with good work habits and workplace readiness. This summer we were also the media sponsors of The Ride for Missing Children, supporting the Center for Exploited and Missing Children by encouraging civilian bikers to fundraise and join law enforcers in a daylong tour of area schools, where the message at each stop reinforced what was presented at assemblies the week before and emphasized internet and social media safety. Promotional spots ran 7/31 -9/22, 24x on WSTM, 190x on WSTQ, and 150x on CNYCentral. In addition, staffers are involved in coaching, participate in charity events, and sit on community boards that work for the welfare and betterment of young people.
