Dear FCC,

Due to a typographical error and a misunderstanding, the original form 319 read TPO at 50, the correct calculated TPO is 127 watts considering coax loss and antenna gain for 50 watts ERP.

An Informal Objection was filed not an hour after our filing of form 319. A few days later a supplement was added to the informal complaint that included pictures and graphs. The photographs before we completed the final antenna height adjustments.

Please be assured that we are currently announcing our station call letters call letters as required.

I would like to go further and give you a little history of our experience in getting our station going.

Reach For The Top, Inc. was awarded a construction permit in 2014 and has twice relied on "consultants" that came to us, unsolicited, offering their services that we later found had conflicts of interest. Forms were filed without my consent or knowledge such as time share agreements, technical perimeter changes and agreements signed by someone other than myself which affected our position without full disclosure of the ramifications by the 'consultants'. Additionally, the two "consultants" unbeknown to us, had a history of conflict with each other which we were soon in the middle of. We have severed our connection with them.

We are confident as we move forward that we are now working with seasoned and high integrity broadcast engineers who will assist us in making sure our transmission facilities are operating within the terms of our original construction permit and subsequent license and all applicable FCC rules.

Reach For The Top, Inc. is committed to being a good neighbor, and we will deal with any complaints accordingly once verified. After a field listening test using typical car radios near the transmitter location we found absolutely no interference to either station.

Sincerely,

Ivonne Guzman, CEO
